

Press release: Killjoy say goodbye

*>>Absence diminishes little passions and increases great ones,

It's hard for us, but after many years contributing to the rock scene Killjoy has decided to say goodbye.

By now it's 12 years that Killjoy keep playing their Punkrock, the music that in some kind of way shaped their lives like no other. The times have changed since we played our first chords, but one thing remained the same: the power on stage and the provision of music for people they can dance to.

We will remember the experiences we had – the good and the bad ones, the places we have seen, the people we have met, the stages where we have played and the parties we have had. We have put all our passion and time into this band and the music. It's that time that we can not afford anymore to fully devote us to this project. It's time to dislocate priorities and to concentrate on new ideas an respectively ideas that were left back in time.

We will celebrate our farewell and the career as a band at our last show on September 9th at the "Max" in Bressanone. The show is called "Final Collapse 3" and we hope to see you there to have party with us. For friends and companions we will organise a little party on Saturday.

Killjoy would like to say a big THANK YOU to all of you who supported us in the years as a band. We really appreciate everything you have done for us!
